

Good Night Toronto, Good Night Our World

As the golden orb of day descends beyond the horizon, the vibrant metropolis of Toronto transforms into a canvas of ethereal beauty. The bustling streets of daytime give way to a tranquil realm, where the city's soul seems to whisper secrets under the cloak of night. It is in this liminal space that the poetic tapestry of "Good Night Toronto, Good Night Our World" unfolds.

This captivating collection of poems, accompanied by breathtaking night photography, invites readers on a nocturnal odyssey through Toronto's iconic landmarks and hidden gems. From the towering CN Tower to the serene Humber River, each verse captures the city's heartbeat in its most intimate and reflective moments.

The poet's evocative language paints vivid pictures of the city's nocturnal symphony: the gentle lapping of waves against the harbourfront, the soft hum of traffic fading into the distance, and the twinkling lights of skyscrapers illuminating the darkness like a celestial constellation.
