What are you passionate about? What do you love to create? Once you know what your passion is, you can start to focus your work on that. Don't be afraid to experiment and try new things. The more you explore, the more you'll learn about your own unique style.

2. Set your own standards

Don't let other people tell you what you should or shouldn't create. Set your own standards and stick to them. If you're not happy with a project, don't be afraid to walk away. There are plenty of other opportunities out there.

3. Stay true to yourself

It's important to stay true to yourself and your own values. Don't let the pressure of commercialism force you to compromise your integrity. If you believe in something, stand up for it. Your work will be all the more powerful for it.
